LATER REGISTRATION DATE SOUGHT FOR STATE

Representative Norman E. Whitney of Bangor has presented a bill to the legislature to extend the period of grace on motor vehicle registrations one further month. His bill would change the expiration date on registrations from March 1 to April 1.

Bills designed to provide for registration of motor vehicles on dates other than Jan. 1, a requirement already in effect in more than 30 states, have been introduced in 12 other legislatures now in session. They include Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Mexico, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Wisconsin. Several bills, some calling for an April 1 registration date, others for July 1, have been introduced in New York.

Officials of states which adopted the deferred registration plan some years ago have reported satisfaction with the later date, and the idea has had the wholehearted support of retail merchants, who enjoy an increased holiday business. In the average state millions of dollars which otherwise would have frozen into registration fees around January 1 now are released for holiday trade.

The average registration fee throughout the country is around $15, or nearly one half as costly as the average motorist's gasoline tax bill. The potential expenditure of some $100,000,000 in retail trade by the motor vehicle owners in the states which do not now defer registration dates represents a sizable and profitable improvement in holiday trade.

State officials are pleased by the larger immediate re-registration of motor vehicles on April 1, the more popular later date. The increase in state revenue thus made possible is enhanced by the increased income from gasoline taxes during January, February, and March. In the old days about one-fifth of all motor vehicles were idle during the first quarter of the year, thus reducing state gasoline tax revenues substantially.

Automotive dealers also are supporting the later date, which they find to be of aid in promoting sales at automobile shows now held in the fall of the year.

SOPER—BARTLETT

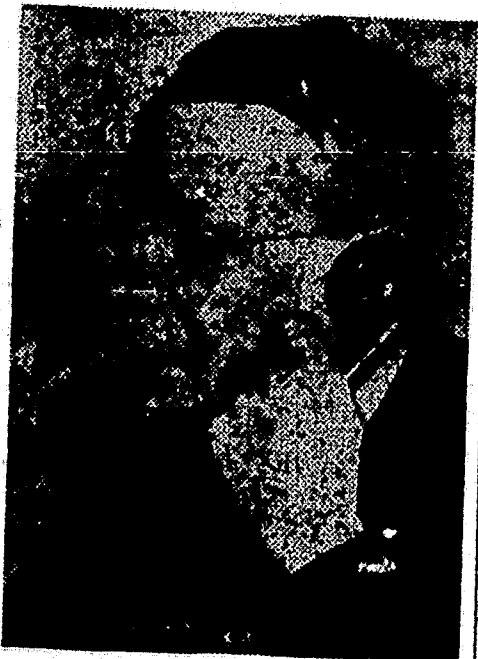

In a ceremony performed at the Baptist Parsonage at Farmington Saturday evening, Miss Lois Bartlett of this town became the bride of George P. Soper of Chesterville. Rev. Albert G. Henderson officiated, using the single ring service.

Mrs. Soper is the daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Bartlett and the late Edwin Bartlett of Bethel. She graduated from Gould Academy in the class of 1935. Mr. Soper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soper of Chesterville.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Lydia Norton was given a surprise party Saturday evening in honor of her birthday by her mother, Mrs. Eugene Norton. The honor guest received many gifts. Other guests were Kathleen Wight, Rachel Gordon, Arlene Greenleaf, Elaine Warren, Herbertina Norton, Madelyn Bird, Sylvia Bird, Muriel Hall, Barbara Hall, Arlene Brown, Muriel Bean, Wilma Bean, Kenneth Brooks, Maurice Brooks, Bradley Hall, James Brown, Alfred Brown, Donald Porter, Donald Brown, Irving Brown, Edwin Brown, Walter Grover and Rupert Grover.

MILITARIZE CCC?

John Chrociak, lieutenant colonel in the United States army reserve, is president of the newly formed American Conservation association, a group making an effort to organize the Civilian Conservation corps on a permanent basis, fully officered and supervised by reserve officers on permanent detail. If the association's efforts are successful, the new group will add another pressure unit in the political scene which might easily rival the widespread influence of the American Legion.

MISS AURILLA BARTLETT

Miss Aurilla Abbie Bartlett died last Wednesday night at the home of Frank Bean, where she had lived for two years. She was born in Bethel Dec. 18, 1864, the daughter of Jonah and Lausana Lapham Bartlett.

She was a member of the Methodist Church at Litchfield.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Lucetta Pierce of Woodstock, a brother W. B. Bartlett of East Bethel, and a niece, Mrs. Aurilla O'Brien of Lowell, Mass.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church, Bryant Pond, Friday afternoon. Burial will be at Litchfield.

LEO J. BUCK

Leo J. Buck died last Thursday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. T. F. Vail, at Skillingston. He was an invalid.

Mr. Buck was born in Bethel Nov. 9, 1896, the son of Orlando and Leona Swan Buck.

Survivors include his mother; three brothers, Ernest and Everett of Bethel, and Archie of Portland; three sisters, Mrs. Lillian Vail and Mrs. Gladys Hall of Bethel, and Mrs. Ruth Bonvie of Canton, Mass.

Private funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Greenleaf's funeral home. Rev. M. A. Don officiated. Interment was at Middle Intervale.

LADIES' CLUB

Mrs. W. J. Upson entertained the Ladies' Club at her home last Thursday afternoon. Miss Carrie Wight was in charge of the program which included patriotic songs by a group of school children, and Mrs. Emma Van Den Kerkhoven and Mrs. Addie Ramsell read papers on Lincoln. Tea was served by Mrs. Upson and Miss Frances Hodgson.

The Club will be entertained this (Thursday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. E. Hanscom. A Valentine party and silver tea will be enjoyed by the members. Miss Gwendolyn Stearns will give a talk on Art. Mrs. Hanscom is in charge of the program and Mrs. Emma Van Den Kerkhoven, Mrs. Ethel Hastings and Mrs. H. T. Wallace are in charge of the tea.

TOWN MAGAZINE SUSPENDS

Due to recent conditions, a sufficient volume of advertising has not been obtained to justify the cost of publishing, and the management of Town Magazine has decided to suspend publication, at least for a few weeks. This magazine has been a popular supplement to the Citizen for several months.

GOULD WINTER SPORTS TEAM PLACES SECOND TO NORWAY

The Gould team, participating in their first North Waterford Carnival, picked up enough points in the skiing events to place second to Norway. R. Baker did the bulk of the scoring for Gould by winning both the cross-country ski race and the ski dash, gathering in 10 points. However, Norway presented an exceptionally strong snowshoe group, and walked away with 22 out of a possible 23 points to carry off team honors. This being Norway's third consecutive victory at this carnival gives them permanent possession of the cup. One of the highlights from Gould's standpoint was the Senior Slalom. This event, open to all, was won by Baker with Runyon and Littlehale placing second and third to him, thus giving Gould a clean sweep.

The carnival was well conducted and the participants seemed to enjoy themselves greatly.

WINTER CARNIVAL FRIDAY-SATURDAY

Big Varied Program Planned Beginning Friday Afternoon Including Basketball, Movies, Carnival Ball Saturday Night

The Gould Academy Winter Carnival, under the auspices of the "Y" Club, will be held on Friday and Saturday of this week. A half holiday will be given the student body on Friday. At 1 p. m. the boys' Cross Country Ski Race will start from behind the Girls' Dormitory; at 2:30, Gould will meet Fryeburg in both varsity and junior varsity basketball games in the William Bingham Gymnasium. The Academy Swing Band will furnish music for an after-supper dance from 6:30 to 8 in the gym. Movie parties will be in order at 8:10 at Odeon Hall where "Men With Wings" will be enjoyed.

The Saturday morning events will be held at Anderson's Ski Slopes, beginning with the finals of the Jumping at 9:30; at 10, Down-hill races for both A and B Classes of Academy boys, one race for girls and one race for grammar school boys will take place. At 10:45 Class A and B Slalom races for boys and one Slalom race for girls will be staged.

After lunch, beginning at 2 p. m., the following races will be held on or near the athletic field: Snowshoe Dashes for both boys and girls, both Academy and Grammar School; Ski Dashes for same; a boys' Medley Race, four to a team, two on skis and two on snowshoes; a three-legged race for girls, a snowshoe cross country race for Academy boys and a short cross country ski race for grammar school boys.

At 8:00 the Carnival Ball will be held in the gymnasium with music furnished by Freddie King's Orchestra of Berlin, N. H. The Carnival tag is admission to all events with the exception of the movies.

GOULD SKI TEAM VICTOR IN INFORMAL SKI MEET

The Mexico High School ski team came to Bethel Thursday afternoon and competed against the local school team. In spite of the wind and intense cold, a very interesting four-event meet was conducted. The Gould boys had considerably the better of things and walked away with a majority of the places. Mexico was particularly unfortunate in the cross-country when two of their men followed a Gould man who had gotten off the course. This left them only two men to complete this event.

The summary of events and places is as follows:

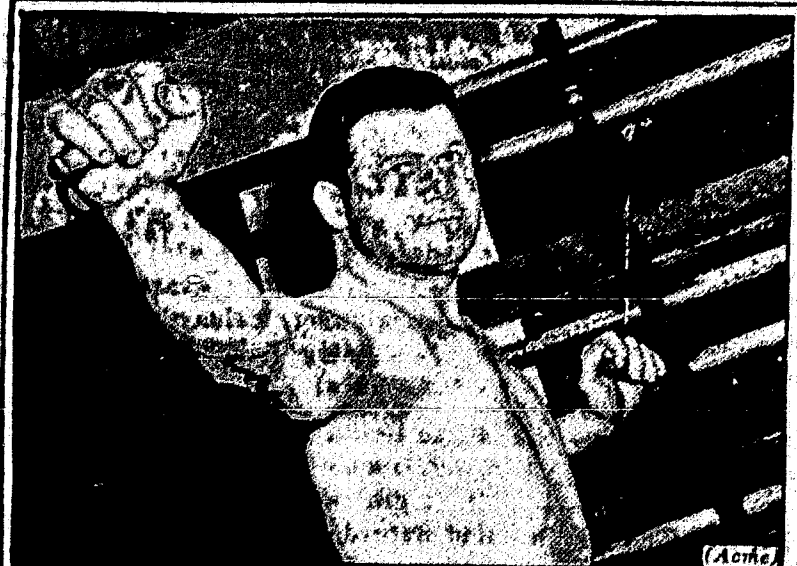

Downhill: 1st, R. Baker, G.; 2d, I. Cummings, G.; 3d, D. Brooks, G. Jumping: 1st, I. Cummings, G.; 2d, F. Littlehale, G.; 3d, Bernard, M. Slalom: 1st, He between Brooks, G. and Mann, M.; 3d, Lave, G. Cross-Country: 1st, R. Baker, G.; 2d, Bernard, M.; 3d, B. Miller, G. Total Points: Gould 28, Mexico 8.

LOCAL WOMAN WINNER IN NATIONAL CONTEST

Mrs. Bertha Mundt is the winner of a $100 check in a contest conducted by the manufacturers of Oxydol. This was a contest in which the participants supplied the last line of a "Jingle." The company is giving $30,000 in all, divided into eight $100 prizes daily and a $1000 grand prize in a six weeks period.

Stanley Davis received an ankle injury Sunday while skiing.

People and Spots in the Late News

FOXY FOXX ... Signing 1939 contract, calling for estimated salary of $30,000. Jimmy Foxx, slugging Boston Red Sox first baseman and American League's most valuable player in 1938, is getting in shape for spring training through daily workouts at Philadelphia gymnasium with weight pulleys in effort to remove excess poundage.

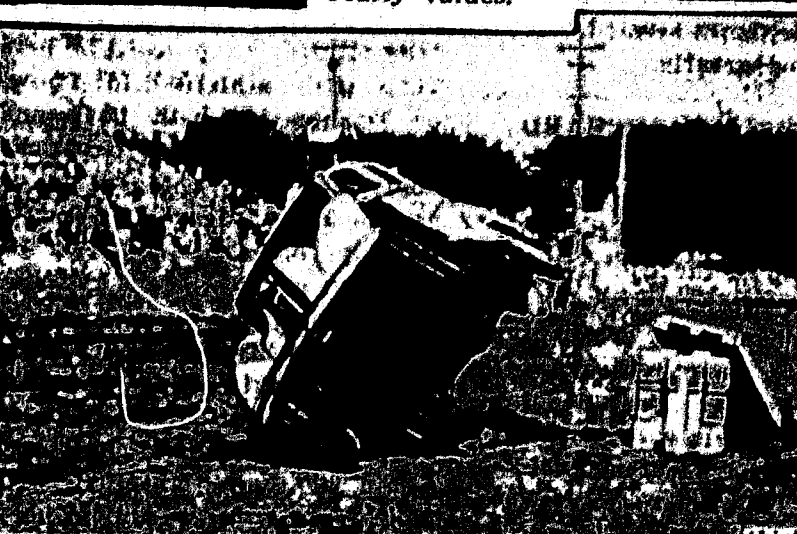

BIG BLOW OVER ... Announcement that Vivian Leigh, 25-year-old British actress, had been signed to portray Scarlet O'Hara, in movie version of Margaret Mitchell's best seller, "Gone With the Wind," ended months of search during which many prominent Hollywood stars had been rumored as "definitely" cast.

REALTY INVESTMENTS SAFE ... Important factor in making real estate "safest and most profitable investment for this and coming years," according to Ray G. Hofford, executive vice-president of Real Estate Association of State of New York, is activity of chain stores in building shopping districts and maintaining realty values.

TIPS ON STYLES ... All set for an afternoon at the races in Miami, Fla., these two smart young misses have picked a couple of winners in resort fashions ... Left ... a shell knit suit in the new shade, shocking pink, touched off with white accessories ... right ... frock of white crepe, buttoning down the back and touched off with a sash of foxglove blue crepe.

FAIR PREVIEW ... Visitors to New York World's Fair will find all of traditional "exposition" thrills plus many new ones. Photo shows Jimmie Lynch, Texas daredevil, who daily will put motorcars through breath-taking acrobatics as part of B. F. Goodrich Company show to stress need for highway safety.

REICHSBANK PRESIDENT ... Dr. Walther Funk, minister of economics in cabinet of Reich's Fuehrer Hitler, has been appointed president of the Reichsbank to succeed Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, deposed by the Fuehrer in move believed to foreshadow drastic changes in Germany's financial and economic policies.

Keep Your Clothes WEARABLE

with this Modern Home Laundry Equipment

THERE are two different effects produced by old-fashioned home laundry equipment. The first is the one we usually hear about—the effect on the housewife: tired back, red hands, sore feet, ruined disposition.

Then there's another important effect—what it does to your clothes. It shortens their life, for hand-rubbing damages the textures. Ironing at too hot temperatures weakens the strength of the fibres.

But today every home can have a modern home laundry on this easy budget plan—

British History Gleaned

From Public House Signs Much of Britain's history, and more of its manners and feelings can be gleaned from various public house signs, seen in villages and towns, says Pearson's London Weekly.

Many of these were selected out of compliments of the reigning king, or lord of the manor. The Blue Boar was the badge of Richard III;
the Bull's Head of Henry VIII, and the White Hart of Richard II.

The Fox and Hounds and Hare and Hounds were named in compliment to a sporting squire, and the Green Man probably originated when the squire's gamekeeper married, and was promoted to the village public.

It is thought that the Saracen's Head was thus named by a Crusader after his return from the Holy wars. The Chequers is said to refer to the Stuart kings, whose shield was "checky." The Spread Eagle being the arms of Germany, indicated in past days that German wines were sold in that inn, and the Castle, being the arms of Spain, signified that Spanish wines were sold.

Colors of Stars

Some stars appear of a reddish hue, some are yellow, and others of a bluish tinge. Many sparkle like diamonds in the sky.

A Wise Man

Ben Franklin wrote "Poor Richard's Almanac" when he was twenty-six. He preached thrift, economy, quality.

He made Poor Richard very human; he made him say the things we all know to be correct;
he made him give advice worth following.

Pretty wise for a young man?
If he were living in our town today you would find him shopping for his home and family from the ads in this newspaper.

Wastes Time Boasting

of Chinatown, "that wastes time boasting about his family usually isn't doing much to make his family brag about him."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

PICTURES IN THE HOME

Attractive "home" pictures, such as this, are easy to take, either in the daytime or at night with photo bulbs.

PICTURES of the rooms of your home are easy to make, and add variety to the snapshot collection.
They also have memory value, in the event furnishings are changed or the home is remodeled.

Any camera is suitable for these pictures, if it can be set for a time exposure. The pictures can be taken either in the daytime, or at night.

Before taking a picture by daylight, have the room illuminated as evenly as possible. Illumination may be balanced, in some cases, by adjusting shades of windows that will be out of range of the camera. Photo lights of the amateur "flood" type are quite helpful in "evening up" the illumination. These bulbs are also valuable for taking night pictures of interiors.

With the illumination adjusted,
place the camera on a firm support, shutter set for "time." Point it toward the part of the room to be pictured, set the lens for a small opening such as f.16, and make the ex-posure.

The exposure time varies with the brightness of the room. With a box camera, or using lens opening f.16 on cameras so marked, exposure can be as short as 4 seconds on a bright, sunny day when the room has white walls and more than one window.
With dark walls and only one window, exposure on a sunny day would be about 40 seconds. On a day of hazy sun, leave the shutter open twice as long, and on a very dull day, ten times as long.

These figures will serve as a guide.

but for your first picture you should make several "test" shots, with increased exposure each time. Three shots, one with 10-second timing, one with 30 seconds, and one with about 2 minutes, will do. Have a print made from each negative, and you can get a good idea of the timing that will be best for other "interior" pictures.

Photo bulbs, when needed to obtain an even balance of lighting in a room, can be used in bridge lamps with shades tipped up and moved about to direct light wherever necessary. Of course, such lights used for general illumination should not be placed where they will show in the daytime pictures.

If windows are included in the picture, try this: keep the shades down for seven-eighths of the exposure.
Then close the camera shutter, being careful not to move the camera;
raise the shades, and open the camera shutter for the remaining ex-posure time. This trick keeps the windows from recording too brightly on the film.

In arranging a room for a picture, it is wise to move any furniture that is quite near the camera, leaving an "open" foreground. This makes the room seem more spacious. The picture should show more floor than ceiling, to avoid a top-heavy appearance.

Winter months are a splendid time to picture the rooms of your home.
Take these pictures now, and you will find added value in them in later years.

Van Becomes a Mixer

By GODFREY DOOLITTLE
© D. J. Walsh—WNU Service.

"GUESS I'll take a smoke," said James Van Dorf, after traveling bags had been stowed away, the coats had been hung, footstools had been pulled out and the three other members of his party appeared to be comfortably supplied with papers or magazines to their liking.

"Go ahead, Van, I'll stay with the girls," said Tom Pritchard, settling down to read the latest fight news.

"Now, for goodness sake, Jim, don't forget we're here and stay in the smoker all evening," cautioned Molly Van Dorf, who had traveled with her husband times enough to know that he was liable to do that very thing.

The limited pulled out of the union station a few minutes later and in due time the conductor came through the car to collect tickets. Tom produced four through tickets, remarking casually, "You'll find my brother-in-law in the smoker."

As it happened, however, Mr. Van Dorf had not gone to the smoker; instead he had stepped out on the deserted observation platform where he proceeded to enjoy his cigar and the passing panorama of the city and suburbs. There the conductor found him.

"Mr. Pritchard has my ticket," he mumbled without taking the cigar from his mouth, "going to Banff."

SHORT SHORT STORY

Complete in This Issue

Shortly after the conductor's departure, a woman stepped out on the platform and seated herself near by. "Isn't this air refreshing," she exclaimed spontaneously, taking several deep breaths. "The car gets so stuffy, I keep in the open as much as possible."

"That's my idea, too," said Mr. Van Dorf mendaciously, for he invariably spent most of his time on a train in the smoker where the air grew thick enough to be cut with a knife.

"Are you, too, taking a well-earned rest?" inquired the lady pleasantly.

"Yes," said Mr. Van Dorf, "in fact this is the first vacation I've taken in five years."

"And where are you going to play and who are your playmates to be?" asked the pleasant lady coaxingly.

"Oh, I'm with a party," he answered evasively, beginning to suspect that it might be well for him to be getting in before Molly sent Tom to find him.

"Oh, please don't let me drive you away," cried the lady as he started to rise, "you haven't half finished your smoke and I'm going to leave you to enjoy it in peace."

Mr. Van Dorf relighted his cigar. He'd take a few more puffs anyway before going inside. But just as he was about to leave a man appeared who took the lately vacated seat next to him.

"Got a match?" asked the stranger, taking a cigarette from a case. "Fine night," he went on after lighting up. "Are you going far?"

"Canadian Rockies—Banff—Lake Louise," replied Mr. Van Dorf.

"Oh, so you're touring," said the man, "with a party, I suppose."

"Uh-huh," said Mr. Van Dorf, beginning to feel a trifle irritated. "Many in your party?"

"Four," answered Mr. Van Dorf shortly. Gosh darn it! he thought, why were people so interested in where he was going and whom he was with?

"Four!" exclaimed the man in a surprised tone. "Did I understand you to say four?"

Mr. Van Dorf arose. "Since it seems to interest you," he said coldly, "I am traveling with my wife, my brother-in-law and his wife. Let me bid you good night."

"Just a moment, old chap, do you mind telling me your brother-in-law's name?"

"His name is Pritchard, but I assure you, my good man, if you are a detective your clues have led you far afield."

"Ha-ha-ha," shouted the man, "the joke's on us all right. Did you tell the conductor that Mr. Pritchard had your ticket?"

"Certainly. He has all four of our tickets."

"Listen, old man, you see we're a party of ten being conducted on a tour to Banff by a Mrs. Pritchard and the conductor understood you to say that Mrs. Pritchard delegated the lady who talked to you earlier and myself to find out if you were trying to horn in on her party. It's been tried before, you see, and this really looked like a clear case."

"Where in the world did you meet all those tourists, Jim?" asked Molly the next day in the diner, "they're not even in our car."

"I'm a great mixer, my dear. I don't believe you've ever properly appreciated my ability in that line," replied Mr. Van Dorf, a trifle nervously, as a smiling young woman bowed to him from across the next table.

Meaning of Red Herring Across Path
A red herring is a herring of special grade which has been heavily salted and slowly smoked to give it a rich brown or reddish color. "To draw a red herring across one's path, track or trail," means to attempt to divert one's attention from the real question by raising a side issue. The saying originated among sportsmen and was suggested by an old practice described as follows in "Gentlemen's Recreation" which was written by a man named Cox and published in 1686: "The trailing or dragging of a dead cat, or fox (and in case of necessity a red-herring) three or four miles . . . and then laying the dogs on the scent." Dogs have a keen scent for red herring, and if one is drawn to the trail of a fox it will m. the hounds.

Why Kiln Dried Lumber Adds to Cost of House

Kiln drying of lumber is practiced in many large mills, for lumber to be used for finished flooring, interior finishing and for furniture. A large percentage of the framing and rough building lumber is of course air seasoned, as kiln drying adds to the cost.

Two types of kilns are commonly used; one is known as the "progressive" type of kiln, in which trucks loaded with lumber are pushed into one end of the kiln and are progressively moved toward the other end, from which they are removed when dry. The temperature is not the same all over these kilns, but is considerably warmer at the finishing end than it is at the end where the lumber is put in. Steam heat is generally used for this work, exhaust steam from the power plant being frequently the source of heat.

No Help From Faultfinders Faultfinders do not improve the world; they only make it seem worse than it really is.

The Oldest Cities

The oldest city in the United States is St. Augustine, Fla. It was settled by the Spanish in 1565, and the site has been continuously occupied ever since. The second oldest city in the United States is Santa Fe, N. M. It was founded by the Spanish, also, about the year 1605, on the site of a deserted Indian pueblo. Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican republic, founded in 1496, is the oldest settlement of white people in the New world. The oldest settlement of white people on the mainland of the Americas is Panama, capital of the republic of Panama. This city was founded in 1519.

By TOM FIZDALE

In case you didn't know it, Mr. and Mrs. Radio Listener, you are the most important factor in the entertainment world today. Such a great exposition of showmanship as the 1939 San Francisco World's Fair has just paid tribute to your judgment by scheduling radio headliners to open their enterprise and agents of motion picture stars reveal that a radio program is the greatest insurance of continued popularity a screen star can have. Eddie Cantor, Benny Goodman, Ray Noble and other headliners are the radio entertainers who will lead-off the San Francisco jubilee and you can bet that the New York World's Fair will use the same pulling power when it gets started.

New Electric Flatirons Ease Work and Cost of Laundering

Clothes last longer with a modern light-weight automatic electric iron.

By IRA MILLER
Rural Electrification Bureau

BECAUSE of its low initial and operating cost, the labor and time saved, and the excellent satisfaction obtained, the electric flatiron is the most popular and common household tool on the electrified farm of today. In fact, it is used in more than 90 percent of the homes where electricity—whether from the high line or from individual power plants—is available. It, therefore, may be wondered why anything should be said about an appliance which is so widely used and so generally regarded as an indispensable part of the modern house. But it must be remembered that thousands of families each year receive electricity for the first time. Also, that countless electric irons now in use are 8, 12 and even 18 years old, although they—like other devices—constantly are being improved in design, durability and efficiency. The housewife who has an old-model electric iron which apparently still is giving excellent service may wonder if she should purchase a new one. The answer is as obvious as to the question, "Would you rather drive a new car or one that is 10 years old?" But, when buying a new iron, she should be informed regarding the value of the extra features and the performance that she may expect from it.

In addition to improvements in shape (sharp points and bevel edges), the new irons also have more comfortable handles, generally are lighter in weight and usually have safety rests—all of which contribute much to easier and more rapid work. Then too, nearly all now are equipped with adjustable thermostats which automatically maintain the temperature at the point best suited to the fabric being ironed. Using an iron incorporating all of the foregoing features, the housewife can do a much more satisfactory job in about one-third to one-half the time required with the old sadiron.

Durable, dependable and efficient electric irons of the automatic type range in price from $5 to $9, with the average approximating the lower figure. The current required naturally varies with the size of the family, its mode of living and the types of fabrics ironed. Countless tests, however, show that the average power consumption amounts to but one kw.-hr. per month per person—five cents or less at present household rates.

AFTER THE CARNIVAL IN THE OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

Once again the Parish is ready to listen to the birds of spring, for the Carnival is over. Friday had us rather worried, for it was a dull sleety day, but Saturday was different. Some clouds in the morning, but these quickly cleared and the day was just about right for the Carnival. If some of you had climbed the hill to the Hersey's five-acre lot in the morning, you would have found it worth your while, not merely for the sport, but also for the scene that lay spread out before you. The events of the day brought out some keen competition. We would like to tell you all about it, but we can just tell you about some of the outstanding results. All hail to Dorothy Sanford, the Queen! Dorothy is from North Waterford, and has been one of the leading athletes in her class at Norway. All hail, also, to Otis Perry, the King! Otis is from South Waterford, and is a boy that has the goods to deliver in Winter Sports, as shown by the events he entered.

Saturday, The Norway High School was hard pressed in the competition with skis, but when it came to snowshoes they just simply ran away from the pack, and carried the cup with them. The South Paris High School girls saved the day for their school, as they earned the girls' emblem, and also to one of their team went the new "Friends' Cup" given for possession to the high school boy or girl with the highest score in competition. There was some keen sport in the Grammar School events. South Waterford, however, was not to be denied; so they kept the cup, as this is their third year in succession to have won it. Another of the South Waterford boys, Oliver Hamlin, was tied for the highest number of points with his team mate, Otis. So he was awarded the Parish Cup. Miriam Bull, with three blue ribbons, walked away with the Sunday School Cup.

We were grieved, indeed, to have a shadow of sorrow cast over what had been such a good day. Herman Holt had attended the Carnival through the day; and had helped with preparations for dinner at the Vostry. He was at the hall ready to enjoy the evening's program, as his interest in the Carnival had been keen from the very beginning, 13 years ago. In the hall, just before the play, Mr. Holt collapsed, and the efforts of the doctor to quicken a weakened heart were unavailing. In the passing of Mr. Holt the United Parish and the North Waterford Church lost a valued advocate and officer; and hundreds from one end of the Parish to the other lost a treasured friend.

Because of the death that has brought sorrow to so many the presentation of "Happy Landings," scheduled for South Waterford Friday night, has been postponed.

On Sunday afternoon there will be a service at the Albany Town House School. The Pilgrim Fellowship meeting will be led by Agnes Gardner. The meeting will be held at the home of Pauline York. The subject, "Who is Dinabandhu?"

On Monday evening the Lovell Men's Club will meet with Capt. Fred Robbins of the Swift River C. C. G. Camp as speaker.

Supper next week, Thursday and Friday, at East Stoneham and Conter Lovell.

GOULD LEADS NORWAY AFTER FIRST SPORTS EVENTS

Participating in their second meet on their home course, the Gould Winter Sports team defeated Norway in both jumping and cross-country. Conditions for the meet were near perfect as the light snow during the day covered up the crust sufficiently to give a good base. Four sophomores composed the team entered in the cross-country and all finished well up in the time. This looks bad for the other classes as this is the first event of the Annual Winter Carnival coming at 1 p. m. Friday afternoon.

A summary of the two events follows:
Jumping: 1st, Littlehale, G; 2d, E. Brown, G, Russell, N (tie).
Cross-country: 1st, Baker, G; 2d, Cummings, G; 3d, Wellman, N.
Points: Gould 200, Norway 196-6.
Gould is scheduled to go to Norway Thursday afternoon for the other two events which will complete the meet, slalom and downhill.

FRYEBURG PLAYS GOULD FRIDAY

On Friday afternoon the Fryeburg Academy varsity and second teams will lock horns with respective teams of Gould Academy in the final home game for the local quintets. These games are being played at 2:30 and 3:45 as part of Gould's annual Winter Carnival. The visitors are coming with a strong aggregation which will give Gould an acid test. The local boys have been setting a fast pace in the past few weeks turning in five straight victories including a sound trouncing to South Paris on the latter's own floor. There is some question however in Coach Anderson's mind as to whether this string of victories will keep the squad under the winning complex or set up a sentiment of over-confidence which so often shatters strings of victories.

The final game for the Bethel team will be played at Gorham, N. H., next Tuesday evening. Here Gould will attempt to avenge the 31-30 defeat administered by the N. H. quintet in the first game of the season.
